Whereas, recognized student groups are coming to ASUM each year with more and more requests for travel allocations,

Whereas, the minimum amount that ASUM currently funds the Special Allocations - Travel Account is $17,500.00,

Whereas, the minimum amount funded should be raised in order to make sure that student groups continue to receive adequate funding for travel,

Whereas, the minimum level of funding required by ASUM should be articulated within Fiscal Policy,

Therefore Let It Be Resolved that the Senate of the Associated Students of The University of Montana (ASUM) amends Fiscal Policy, Section 14.0 to read:

14.0 TRAVEL.
14.1 All travel funded by the ASUM must directly benefit the ASUM and the organization requesting funding.

Passed 3/17/04
Resolution to Formally Withdraw Support from Montana Associated Students (MAS)

Whereas, MAS has no significant importance except: establishing its own procedures to be approved by the Commissioner of Higher Education, and providing nominations for student regent to the Governor as provided for in 2-15-1508 Sec. 3 Sub-Sec. B in the Montana Code Annotated;

Whereas, MAS has decided to take a step forward in student representation at the state level; overstepping its coded bounds by taking executive stances on Board of Regents policy in its newly formed constitution’s Function, “MAS shall function under the authority of the MUS Board of Regents as advisor to the MUS Board of Regents in matters directly and indirectly affecting the students of the MUS. The MAS shall also function to coordinate programs and activities of a common interest to the student associations of each of the individual campuses of the MUS.”;

Whereas, the MAS membership being “composed of fourteen voting members [including] the duly elected student body presidents or their designees [of each individual campus]” (Board of Regents Policy 506.3) serves the purpose of choosing nominations for student regent to the Governor, but does not represent the policy concerns of individual campuses adequately;

Whereas, MAS does not adequately represent the University of Montana-Missoula’s student population, nearly one third of MAS constituent base, either proportionally or commensurately;

Whereas, MAS lacks an institutional memory without a classified staff person or a system to provide continuity from one year to the next;

Whereas, MAS has failed to offer students information regarding its constitution, by-laws, meeting times, agendas, and any contact information;

Whereas, MAS restructured its own rules this year with no consideration to better represent the students at the University of Montana;

Therefore Let It Be Resolved that pending significant reforms in the areas of student accessibility, a system of continuity, and a more adequate representation for individual campuses on policy matters, The Associated Students of the University of Montana-Missoula hereby withdraw formal support from MAS including all monetary support not explicitly requested by Board of Regents policy or for the express purpose of these reforms.

Passed
3/17/04
Resolution for the adoption of a Student Bill of Rights for The University of Montana and the Montana University System

Whereas, SB-27 passed by this body on December 3, 2003, "urges[s] the faculty to devote careful consideration to standards of professional manner in the presentation of educational material as well as in the evaluation of students’ academic work;"

Whereas, SB-27 passed by this body on December 3, 2003, states, “the Associated Students of The University of Montana will continue to strive, in the allocation of student activity funds and the selection of visiting speakers, to observe the principles of fairness, balance, and inclusion.”;

Therefore Let It Be Resolved that the Associated Students of the University of Montana adopts the Student Bill of Rights:

The Student Bill of Rights

I. The Mission of the University.
The central purposes of a University are the pursuit of truth, the discovery of new knowledge through scholarship and research, the study and reasoned criticism of intellectual and cultural traditions, the teaching and general development of students to help them become creative individuals and productive citizens of a pluralistic democracy, and the transmission of knowledge and learning to a society at large. Free inquiry and free speech within the academic community are indispensable to the achievement of these goals. The freedom to teach and to learn depend upon the creation of appropriate conditions and opportunities on the campus as a whole as well as in the classrooms and lecture halls. These purposes reflect the values — pluralism, diversity, opportunity, critical intelligence, openness and fairness — that are the cornerstones of American society.

II. Academic Freedom
1. The Concept. Academic freedom and intellectual diversity are values indispensable to the American university. From its first formulation in the General Report of the Committee on Academic Freedom and Tenure of the American Association of University Professors, the concept of academic freedom has been premised on the idea that human knowledge is a never-ending pursuit of the truth, that there is no humanly accessible truth that is not in principle open to challenge, and that no party or intellectual faction has a monopoly on wisdom. Therefore, academic freedom is most likely to thrive in an environment of intellectual diversity that protects and fosters independence of thought and speech. In the words of the General Report, it is vital to protect “as the first condition of progress, [a] complete and unlimited freedom to pursue inquiry and publish its results.”

Because free inquiry and its fruits are crucial to the democratic enterprise itself, academic freedom is a national value as well. In a historic 1967 decision (Keyishian v. Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York) the Supreme Court of the United States overturned a New York State loyalty provision for teachers with these words: “Our Nation is deeply committed to safeguarding academic freedom, [a] transcendent value to all of us and not merely to the teachers concerned.” In Sweezy v. New Hampshire, (1957) the Court observed that the “essentiality of freedom in the community of American universities [was] almost self-evident.”

2. The Practice. Academic freedom consists in protecting the intellectual independence of professors, researchers and students in the pursuit of knowledge and the expression of ideas from interference by legislators or authorities within the institution itself. This means that no political, ideological or religious orthodoxy will be imposed on professors, researchers and students through the hiring or tenure or termination process, or through the grading system or through the control of the classroom or any other administrative means. Nor shall legislatures impose any such orthodoxy through their control of the university budget.
From its very first statement on academic freedom, the university community has recognized the vulnerability of students in particular to political and ideological abuses of the university as an institution. The 1915 General Report admonished faculty to avoid "taking unfair advantage of the student's immaturity by indoctrinating him with the teacher's own opinions before the student has had an opportunity fairly to examine other opinions on the matters in question, and before he has sufficient knowledge and ripeness of judgment to be entitled to form any definitive opinion of his own."

In The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure, the American Association of University Professors declared: "Teachers are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching controversial matter which has no relation to their subject." In a 1970 clarification and re-endorsement of this principle, the AAUP said: "The intent of this statement is not to discourage what is 'controversial.' Controversy is at the heart of the free academic inquiry, which the entire statement is designed to foster. The passage serves to underscore the need for teachers to avoid persistently intruding material which has no relation to their subject." ("1970 Interpretative Comments," endorsed by the 56th annual association meeting as association policy.)

In 1967, the AAUP's Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students affirmed the inseparability of "the freedom to teach and freedom to learn." In the words of the report, "Students should be free to take reasoned exception to the data or views offered in any course of study and to reserve judgment about matters of opinion."

Professors are hired to teach all students, not just students who share their political, religious and philosophical beliefs. It is essential therefore, that professors and lecturers not force their opinions about philosophy, politics and other contestable issues on students in the classroom and in all academic environments. This is a cardinal principle of academic freedom laid down by the American Association of University Professors.

In an academic environment professors are in a unique position of authority vis-à-vis their students. The use of academic incentives and disincentives to advance a partisan or sectarian view creates an environment of indoctrination which is unprofessional and contrary to the educational mission. It is a violation of students' academic freedom. The creation of closed, political fiefdoms in colleges, programs or departments, is the opposite of academic freedom, and does not deserve public subsidy or private educational support.

Therefore, to ensure the integrity of the educational process and to protect the principle of intellectual diversity, the following principles and procedures shall be observed. These principles fully apply only to public universities and to private universities that present themselves as bound by the canons of academic freedom. Private institutions choosing to restrict academic freedom on the basis of creed have an obligation to be as explicit as is possible about the scope and nature of these restrictions.

1. Students will be graded solely on the basis of their reasoned answers and appropriate knowledge of the subjects and disciplines they study, not on the basis of their political or religious beliefs.

2. Curricula and reading lists in the humanities and social sciences should reflect the uncertainty and unsettled character of all human knowledge in these areas by providing students with dissenting sources and viewpoints where appropriate. While teachers are and should be free to pursue their own findings and perspectives in presenting their views, they should consider and make their students aware of other viewpoints. Academic disciplines should welcome a diversity of approaches to unsettled questions.

3. Exposing students to the spectrum of significant scholarly viewpoints on the subjects examined in their courses is a major responsibility of faculty. Faculty will not use their courses for the purpose of political, ideological, religious or anti-religious indoctrination.

4. Selection of speakers, allocation of funds for speakers programs and other student activities will observe the principles of academic freedom and promote intellectual pluralism.
5. An environment conducive to the civil exchange of ideas being an essential component of a free university, the obstruction of invited campus speakers, destruction of campus literature or other effort to obstruct this exchange will not be tolerated.

6. Knowledge advances when individual scholars are left free to reach their own conclusions about which methods, facts, and theories have been validated by research. Academic institutions and professional societies formed to advance knowledge within an area of research, maintain the integrity of the research process, and organize the professional lives of related researchers serve as indispensable venues within which scholars circulate research findings and debate their interpretation. To perform these functions adequately, academic institutions and professional societies should maintain a posture of organizational neutrality with respect to the substantive disagreements that divide researchers on questions within, or outside, their fields of inquiry.

And Let It Be Further Resolved that the Associated Students of the University of Montana encourage the Regents of the Montana University System to adopt “The Students Bill of Rights”;

And Let It Be Further Resolved that copies of this resolution shall be sent to the Regents of the Montana University System, The University of Montana Administration and The University of Montana Faculty Senate.

And Let It Be Further Resolved that copies of this resolution shall be sent to The University of Montana Faculty Senate, the Regents of the Montana University System, The University of Montana Administration and all other student government organizations in the Montana University System;
