FOR RELEASE WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16

Dr. Marie L. Lagarde, Mrs. Patricia J. Nonnenmacher, and Ernst S. Dick have been appointed to the staff of the Foreign Languages Dept. at Montana State University, Missoula, announced President Carl McFarland.

Dr. Lagarde will be an assistant professor in the French section. She has been teaching French at Marygrove College, Detroit, since 1954. Previously she taught at Wayne University, Tulane University, Stevens College, Southwest Louisiana Institute, and in elementary and high schools at Hahnville, La. She received a French government award in 1942 and 1954, and a Fulbright scholarship to France, 1949-50. She was awarded a normal certificate from Dominican College, bachelor of philosophy from Loyola University, and doctor of philosophy from Tulane University.

Mrs. Nonnenmacher will instruct in the German section. She has been a teacher at Colorado A&M for the past year. She was an associate editor of a bilingual trade publication for the International Division of the Ford Motor Co., teacher of German for the University of Maryland Overseas Program in Germany and at Centenary Junior College. She received her B.A. from New Jersey College for Women, Rutgers University, and M.A. from Northwestern University.

Dick, who will be an instructor in the German section, is an exchange scholar. He taught at MSU during the summer session and at Johns Hopkins University during the past school year. He has also taught at the University of Sheffield, England, and the University at Munster, West Germany. He was educated in schools in Sensburg, East Prussia; Oxbol, Denmark; and Verden/Aller, West Germany.
