Microsoft Campus Agreement Overview

Welcome to the newest addition to the Microsoft Volume Licensing lineup! Microsoft Campus Agreement is Microsoft Volume Licensing Program specifically for Higher Education Customers. This new licensing program will be announced to all North American higher education customers in August 1998 and will be available to purchase through select Microsoft Authorized Education Resellers in October, 1998.

Microsoft spent a considerable amount of time listening to higher education customers when developing this exciting licensing offering and we feel confident that this new program will meet the needs of higher education customers. Education customers wanted more flexibility in order to address the unique challenges they face when acquiring and using software. Microsoft Campus Agreement was designed with that single goal in mind.

Microsoft Campus Agreement allows a university to make a commitment to Microsoft technology and has the following highlights:

- Annual payment terms
- A count of software licenses based on Full-Time Equivalents (FTE) rather than total number of personal computers
- Tiered pricing for faculty with an optional student arrangement
- Tiered discounts for students achieved at the 10,000, 25,000, and 50,000 FTE levels

Microsoft developed Campus Agreement to improve customer satisfaction to higher education customers by providing a simple alternative to current Microsoft licensing options, to ensure college students have access to the latest versions of Microsoft products and to continue to reduce piracy.

Microsoft Products Available through Campus Agreement

While all Microsoft products continue to be available through Microsoft Open, Select and Full Packaged Product, the products included in the Microsoft Campus Agreement are:

- Microsoft Office/Office Professional
- Windows 32-bit Operating System Upgrade
- FrontPage
- BackOffice Client Access License (CAL)
- Visual Studio Professional Edition

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What is Microsoft's new licensing program for higher education?
A. Microsoft's new licensing program for higher education, Microsoft Campus Agreement, is designed to offer colleges and universities the easiest, most flexible and efficient way to purchase our software for use on their campuses. Through the Microsoft Campus Agreement, colleges and universities purchase licenses to Microsoft software based on the number full-time equivalents (FTEs) of faculty or staff users and then can purchase licenses for full-time equivalent students as well. Microsoft products included in the Microsoft Campus Agreement program are Microsoft Office/Office Professional, Windows 32-bit Operating System Upgrade, FrontPage, BackOffice Client Access License (CAL), and Visual Studio Professional.

Q. Why did Microsoft develop this new licensing program?
A. As you know, Microsoft is committed to the higher education market. We believe the most important use of technology is to improve education and we wanted to offer our higher education customers an easy, flexible and efficient way to license our products.

Q. Did higher education customers have any input into this new licensing program?
A. Yes. We have spent the past several months talking with our higher education customers about the type of licensing program that would best meet their needs. In addition to informal conversations at conferences and meetings, we worked with CAUSE to set-up a Higher Ed Licensing Advisory Council, representing 28 different institutions. This group met with us in Redmond in late February and helped shape the components of Microsoft Campus Agreement. As we developed the licensing program in the months following that meeting, they provided feedback on our plans via an electronic mailing list and conference calls. Higher education customers have been involved in the development of Microsoft Campus Agreement every step of the way. Microsoft has also reviewed plans with a variety of channel partners and incorporated their feedback into plans for Microsoft Campus Agreement.

Q. Why did you choose those software products for Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. These were the products that our higher education customers told us they wanted to see in a licensing program tailored specifically for them. They offer students, faculty and staff a full suite of productivity software, the Windows operating system upgrade, a Web authoring tool, development software, and the software needed for a complete networking, messaging, Internet and intranet environment. Plus, if a product upgrade is released within the timeline of the license agreement, colleges and universities can upgrade their software to the newest version. Customers can also downgrade the software if for some reason they need a previous version of software loaded on their machines.

Q. What is the length of a Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. Microsoft Campus Agreement is a non-perpetual, annual license. That means colleges and universities can install and use the software purchased via the license agreement for 12 months.
from the date of purchase. At the end of the license agreement, they can then renew the license agreement based on an updated FTE count. If a customer decides not to renew their Microsoft Campus Agreement, they must un-install the software.

Q. Can an individual department or school at a university sign a Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. Yes, but there is a minimum number of 500 faculty and staff FTEs for a Microsoft Campus Agreement.

Q. Is there a minimum FTE count in order to participate in Microsoft Campus Agreement
A. Yes. If a college or university has less than 500 faculty/staff FTEs, they must also purchase the student option in order to meet a 500 minimum. Also, if a department or school within a college or university wants to enter into a Campus Agreement, they must meet a 500 faculty/staff FTE minimum. Departments and schools can not apply the student option to meet the 500 minimum.

Q. What is the cost per FTE for the Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. The cost per FTE for the Microsoft Campus Agreement is a flat rate based on a college or university’s total number of FTEs for faculty/staff and students. The pricing tiers and pricing, based on the estimated retail price ($US ERP) are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Staff &amp; Faculty</th>
<th>Student Option</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 to 2,999</td>

<tr>

<td>$15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50,000 +</td>
<td>$13</td>

Q. When will colleges and universities be able to sign Microsoft Campus Agreements?
A. The program officially starts in October 1, 1998.

Q. Who can distribute the Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. Microsoft has set criteria for Authorized Education Resellers (AER) that can distribute Microsoft Campus Agreement. These AERs consist of campus resellers, Microsoft Large Account Resellers, AERs with a history of distributing Microsoft volume licensing in large quantities and Microsoft Certified Solution Providers.

Q. What other licensing options do universities currently have when purchasing Microsoft software?
A. Colleges and universities can participate in Microsoft’s other volume licensing programs when they purchase Microsoft software.

Q. How does Microsoft Campus Agreement differ from the licensing agreement that Indiana University signed?
A. Microsoft and Indiana University worked together to develop a custom licensing agreement for the university. The Enterprise Licensing Agreement between Indiana University and Microsoft is a four-year, perpetual license contract giving the university's computer-using students, faculty and staff access to the most widely used Microsoft software, including operating systems, desktop productivity tools, server software, and messaging products.

Q. Can colleges and universities still work out an agreement like Indiana University did?
A. We are always interested in working with our higher education customers to make our licensing agreements work for them. For customers with more than 100,000 full-time equivalent faculty, staff and students interested in making commitments beyond the standard Select or Microsoft Campus Agreement, Microsoft will work with the customer to provide a simple long-term licensing solution, based on Select, that is customized to meet the specific needs of the customer.

Q. What if a college/university already has a Select or Open License agreement and wants to switch to the Microsoft Campus Agreement?
A. From October 1, 1998 through October 31, 1998 customers who sign a Campus Agreement contract are eligible for a special promotion. These customers will receive credit for Office and Office Professional licenses purchased for their university owned and operated PCs during July 1 to October 1 under their Select contract, via MOLP or FPP. Universities will be able to deduct the number of Office/Office Professional licenses purchased during this period from their total FTE count. For example, if you purchase Campus Agreement licenses for 5,000 faculty/staff and you have already purchased 500 copies of Office via Open, you can report 4,500 FTEs, but will be licensed for all 5,000 faculty and staff.

Q. How does a college or university get the software and distribute the licenses?
A. Colleges and universities can use existing software or purchase one copy of each product. Once they have the product, they can download it to desktops from an internal, secured server or students, faculty and staff may bring their machines into a central location for the software installation. This is completely up to the college or university's discretion.

Q. I'd like to offer software to our students, but this is a large price tag. Can I resell this to students?
A. Yes. The Microsoft Campus Agreement allows a college or university to charge a price, determined by the institution, to the student for the software and distribution.
