Near the Covered Bridge

Nancy Takacs

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/cutbank

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
Takacs, Nancy (1978) "Near the Covered Bridge," CutBank: Vol. 1 : Iss. 11 , Article 31.
Available at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/cutbank/vol1/iss11/31

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in CutBank by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
NEAR THE COVERED BRIDGE

You feel their coming growth
as if inside you.
You've watched the water rush in winter under ice where you stamped your foot,
then were sorry to leave your mark.
Now you believe in leaving things untouched, though you can't wait to gather your greens.
Your mouth waters imagining
the bitterness. The bank soaks through your clothes but you demand crabapples to push out curled leaves as if they only sleep with their hard blossoms.
Spring's been so cold you won't touch Beaver Creek. But crows are here. You've just heard one you can't see and you call back what you think is the answer.