FOR RELEASE MONDAY, NOVEMBER 7

Montana State University Law School alumni all over the country will be solicited for contributions to the MSU Law School Development Fund Drive, which opens Monday, Nov. 14, according to Judge W. D. Murray of Butte, drive chairman.

The Law School Board of Visitors will conduct the one-week campaign to raise $50,000 by voluntary subscription to help equip and furnish the new law building rising on campus, Judge Murray said. The drive is organized to reach all MSU law alumni as well as every Montana lawyer, he explained.

An extensive mail campaign will supplement the personal contact program, Judge Murray said. Dean Robert E. Sullivan of the Law School has written to a member of each law class since 1920 asking him to write to his classmates. Stanley A. Doyle, president of the Montana Bar Association, Polson, has written to members of classes from 1913 to 1920.

An auspicious development of the drive, reports Judge Murray, is the voluntary decision of the MSU law faculty to support the campaign financially.
