FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Jerome J. Kesselman, Denver attorney, certified public accountant and teacher, will speak on "Developments in Depreciation" at the Montana State University Tax Institute, scheduled on campus Dec. 1 and 2.

The institute is conducted annually by the MSU Law School, according to its director, Lester R. Rusoff of the law faculty.

Kesselman is chairman of the Tax Institute of the University of Denver, where he is a professor of accounting. He is a member of the Colorado Governor's Tax Study Group and of the Greater Denver Tax Council. He presents an annual series of tax programs on radio and television and has taken part in tax conferences throughout the West.

Prof. Kesselman holds bachelor of science and master of business administration degrees from the University of Kansas and a law degree from the University of Denver.

Other out-of-state tax attorneys slated to speak at the MSU institute include Sanford M. Stoddard, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Rene A. Wormser, New York, N. Y. Wormser's participation is sponsored by the First Trust Co. of Montana, headquartered in Helena, according to Prof. Rusoff.
