FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Five men who took their undergraduate work at Montana State University have been accepted in the freshman class of schools of medicine or dentistry for the fall of 1962, according to Dr. Ludvig G. Browman, pre-medical sciences adviser at MSU.

John M. Ulvila, Red Lodge, will enter the School of Medicine, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. He combined mathematics and physics majors at MSU, but he plans to go into medical research.

Christopher M. Schemm, Missoula, will take the regular medical curriculum at the School of Medicine, University of Utah, Salt Lake City.

John M. Collins, Missoula, will work for a Ph. D. in anatomy before going into medicine. He will study in the Department of Anatomy in the University of North Dakota School of Medicine.

Entering dentistry are Russell L. Davis, who will attend the School of Dentistry, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and Cole MacPherson, School of Dentistry, University of Oregon, Portland. Lt. MacPherson, 1957 MSU graduate, will finish his tour of duty with the Air Force this summer. Both are from Missoula.
