FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, JUNE 28

Three 1962 high school graduates have been awarded Montana State Press Association scholarships to the School of Journalism at Montana State University, and three other students have been named as alternates.

Dean Nathan B. Blumberg of the MSU School of Journalism said that the freshman year awards will be given to David Rorvik of Ronan, Charles Palm of Chinook and Karalee Stewart of Hungry Horse.

Picked as alternates were Norma Sandberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor O. Sandberg of Missoula; Mary J. Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Dana of Billings; and Nancy Sasse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sasse of Wilsall. The alternates will receive Journalism Work Awards for the freshman year if they receive satisfactory grades each term, Dean Blumberg said.

Miss Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce I. Stewart of Hungry Horse, was graduated third in her class of 62. She was business manager of her high school newspaper and assisted in the production of two annuals in addition to other extra-curricular activities.

Palm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor F. Palm of Chinook, was editor of his high school newspaper for two years and co-business manager of the school annual, and was active in drama, debate, band French Club and the student council. He was co-salutatorian of his graduating class.

Rorvik, son of Mrs. Frances Rorvik of Ronan, was graduated second in his class of 59, served as editor of his high school newspaper and as a member of the annual staff, and was active in many extra-curricular groups, including music, drama and literary activities.
