FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The return of two former faculty members and the addition of two new staff members to the Montana State University School of Business Administration have been announced by MSU President H. K. Newburn.

Returning are Dr. Norman E. Taylor, who will be an associate professor, and Frederick A. Henningsen, who will be an assistant professor. New appointees are Kenneth W. Cabbage, assistant professor, and George L. Mitchell, instructor.

Dr. Taylor has been assistant director of the University of Oregon Bureau of Business Research since 1957. Following a stint as an MSU instructor from 1952 to 1955, he worked for two years as sales manager of a lumber company in Arizona. He has been an economist for the Office of Price Stabilization and has taught at the University of Minnesota and Utah State University.

The marketing specialist's testimony before the U. S. Senate Select Committee on Small Business appears in a Government Printing Office publication, "Set-Aside in Sale of Government Timber," and he is the author of articles in professional journals.

Taylor earned a bachelor's degree and a master of business administration degree at the University of California. He took his Ph. D. at the University of Minnesota.

Henningsen is returning to MSU after five years as an accounting adviser and lecturer at the University of Karachi, Pakistan. A native of Butte, he earned B. A. and M. A. degrees at MSU and did further graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. He served on the MSU faculty from 1946 to 1948 and again from 1951 through 1956. He qualified as a certified public accountant in 1948.
