Montana State University awards first B.A. degree in anthropology ever granted to a woman student to Laura Hudson

University of Montana--Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Montana State University’s 66th commencement exercises will get under way Monday at 2 p.m. in the Field House, President R. X. Flaim announced. This year’s official program carries names of 936 candidates for degrees over the past year—shortly by a BA degree in anthropology from Montana State University—supplanted by a BA degree in anthropology from Montana State University—first such degree ever granted to a woman student, according to Dr. Carling.

Malouf, left, Associate Professor of Anthropology at MSU. Laura’s principal interest in her studies has been concentrated on the Indians in the Flathead Reservation adjacent to her home. The University will award an honorary doctor of letters degree to Prof. the following list includes spring-quarter candidates, who will receive degrees if all requirements are met by Monday.

Candidates for the master’s degree:

BILLINGS – Nancy Critelli, music education; Judith M. Rollins, journalism.

(more)