Law School Admissions Test will be given at Montana State University

University of Montana--Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/1300

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Law School Admission Test will be given at Montana State University and more than 100 other test centers on Nov. 9, 1963, and Feb. 8, April 18 and Aug. 1, 1964, MSU law dean Robert E. Sullivan announced.

The test is required of candidates for admission to most American law schools, including the MSU Law School, the dean said. The examination is administered by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding entrance, candidates for next year's classes should take the test in November or February, Dean Sullivan said.

The morning session of the test measures ability to use language and to think logically. The afternoon session includes evaluation of writing ability and general background.

Sample questions, registration information and registration forms are included in a Bulletin of Information, which should be obtained six weeks in advance of a test date from: Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. Registration forms must be returned to ETS two weeks before the test date.

###