FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Additions to the staffs of Montana State University professional schools have been announced by MSU deans.

New members of the School of Forestry staff are Richard W. Behan, assistant professor, and Kent T. Adair and Lee E. Eddleman, instructors. Lawrence W. Hodges will be an assistant professor in the School of Education; Chester A. Sorensen, an assistant professor in the School of Business Administration; Dean Rea, an assistant professor in the School of Journalism, and Rosemary Leavenworth, an instructor in the School of Fine Arts.

While earning B. S. and M. S. degrees in forestry at MSU, Behan worked summers as a smokejumper and a scaler for the U. S. Forest Service. For the past two years he has served on the USFS staff in Anchorage, Alaska. He has published articles in professional journals, and as an undergraduate he won the 1956 Forestry and Conservation Association essay contest.

Adair holds a B. S. from Colorado Agricultural and Mechanical College and an M. S. from Oregon State College. He has been employed by the USFS in California and by private industry.

Eddleman was a graduate student last year at Colorado State University, where he earned a B. S. in 1960 and an M. S. in 1962. He has worked summers on USFS range studies.

Hodges, former teacher and librarian at Polson, has been a librarian in the Livonia, Mich., school system for the past four years. He is a graduate of Antioch College, and he holds a master of education degree from MSU and an M. A. in library science from the University of Michigan.

Sorensen has been at the University of Washington since 1959, successively as an accountant in the Department of Athletics and an instructor in accounting. For eight years before joining the UW staff he held positions as production manager, cost accountant and financial officer in Tacoma, Wash., business firms. From 1944 to 1951 he taught at Duluth Business University and served as president and manager of the school for four years. He has a B. S. in commerce from the University of North Dakota and is a candidate for a doctorate at the University of Washington.

Rea has been editor, photographer, advertising manager and reporter on newspapers in Missouri and Oregon for the past decade. After earning a bachelor’s degree at Southwest Missouri State College in 1949, he took bachelor and master degrees in journalism at the University of Missouri.

Mrs. Leavenworth holds degrees from the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, and the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. She has done advanced work at Juilliard School of Music, where she has also taught. Since 1956 she has taught piano at Chatham College Laboratory School of Music, Pittsburgh, Pa. She has taught at Brooklyn Conservatory and at Hochstein School, Rochester, N. Y.
