FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 24

Prof. Jerome J. Kesselman of the University of Denver will discuss recent developments in depreciation at the 1963 Institute on Taxation and Estate Planning at Montana State University, according to Prof. Lester R. Rusoff, institute director.

The institute, sponsored annually by the MSU Law School for lawyers, insurance underwriters, accountants, and trust officers, will be conducted on campus Dec. 6 and 7.

Prof. Kesselman has been chairman of the University of Denver Tax Institute for 10 years. He has addressed dozens of tax institutes in the United States, including the one at MSU in 1961. The tax consultant is a lawyer and a certified public accountant.
