FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28

A grant of approximately $4,300 has been made to the School of Journalism at Montana State University by the Newspaper Fund, Inc., of New York City.

The award is to support a summer seminar for high school teachers who have journalism responsibilities in public, private or parochial schools. Junior college teachers with similar duties also may apply.

Details of the award were worked out by Dean Nathan B. Blumberg of the School of Journalism and Paul S. Swensson, executive director of the Newspaper Fund. The program is financed by grants from the Wall Street Journal. The Montana journalism school is one of 12 to receive grants for summer seminars.

Fellowships for summer study will be provided for teachers who wish to improve their knowledge of professional and scholastic journalism. The program is designed to encourage better teaching of journalism, to improve the quality of school newspapers and to point out career opportunities available in journalism for talented young people.

Information and application forms for the 1964 fellowship may be obtained from Swensson at the Newspaper Fund, 44 Broad St., New York, N. Y. 10004. Applications must be submitted before Feb. 10, 1964.
