FOR RELEASE THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28

Douglas W. Clausen, agency training director, Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., Minneapolis, Minn., is one of a trio of out-of-state tax experts who will speak at the 1963 Montana State University Tax Institute, Prof. Lester R. Rusoff, institute director, announced. Clausen will deal with business analysis in estate planning at the institute, scheduled Dec. 6 and 7 at the MSU Law School.

Other out-of-state speakers are Prof. Jerome I. Kesselman of the University of Denver and Joseph Trachtman, practicing attorney and a professor in the New York University Law School.

Clausen was with the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. for several years, serving successively as an agent in Philadelphia, Pa., New York agency manager in Syracuse, and education director in the Hartford office. He holds a B. S. degree from Stout State College and a Ph. M. degree from the University of Wisconsin.
