3-20-1964

Montana State University graduate students receive National Science Foundation fellowships

University of Montana--Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/1382

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Three cooperative graduate fellowships and the same number of summer fellowships for graduate teaching assistants have been awarded to Montana State University graduate students by the National Science Foundation, it was announced by Dr. Frank C. Abbott, Dean of the Graduate School. The award winners were among applicants from every college and university in the nation, and the grants were based on scholastic records and competitive tests, Dr. Abbott said.

Winning cooperative graduate fellowships for a year's tenure were: Richard E. Johnson of Pomona, Calif., who is seeking an advance degree in zoology; John M. Kinsella, Louisville, Ky., also a zoologist; and Dennis D. Williams, Sidney, Mont., in mathematics.

Johnson was also a winner of a summer fellowship, along with John O. Sullivan, Riverside, Calif., in zoology, and Edward W. Wadsworth, of Great Falls, in mathematics.