FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Montana State University Law School has received a bequest of $5,000 under the will of Judge Charles N. Pray of Great Falls to continue the Charles N. Pray Worthy Scholar Award, Dean Robert E. Sullivan announced.

Interest from the bequest will provide an annual cash award for a law student "who has achieved outstanding scholarship despite severe handicaps."

The award was established on the occasion of a testimonial dinner for the eminent jurist when he retired, the dean said. He noted that the late Judge Pray served on the federal bench under appointment by Calvin Coolidge until 1957, when he was succeeded by present U. S. Judge William J. Jameson of Billings.
