FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dr. E. W. Pfeiffer, associate professor of zoology at Montana State University, has been awarded a special fellowship for research by the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases.

Under the grant Dr. Pfeiffer will spend 10 months at the Department of Biology, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. There he will conduct research in kidney physiology with Dr. Bodil Schmidt-Nielsen.

Dr. Schmidt-Nielsen, one of the leading kidney physiologists in the world, invited Dr. Pfeiffer to join research with her.

Dr. Pfeiffer has been conducting kidney research for about six years. Currently he is studying blood vessels of the kidney and their relation to kidney functions in several mammals.
