Montana State University law students will celebrate Law Day USA, May 1, with the second annual Judges Day honoring the state's jurists and the traditional Barristers Ball, according to Steve Dalby, Billings, chairman of the program sponsored by the Student Bar Association at MSU.

U. S. Dist. Judge W. D. Murray of Butte will be the speaker at Barristers Ball. The dinner dance will get under way at 7 p. m. Saturday, May 1, at the Eagles Hall.

Judges Day will open with a noon luncheon for judges, attorneys and law faculty and students at Ming's restaurant. A program scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. at the Law School will feature addresses by a state district judge and two members of the University law faculty. Judge W. W. Lesslie of Bozeman will speak on "Patterned Jury Instructions"; Prof. Larry Elison, on "Problems of Sentencing Criminals," and Prof. David Mason, on "The Proposed Montana Appellate Procedures Rules."

The MSU chapter of Phi Delta Phi, national legal fraternity, will hold open house at the Law School Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 p. m. Everyone is welcome.
