A publications adviser whose high school newspaper and yearbook have won several top awards, Mrs. Ethel M. Page of Sidney, has been given the Montana School of Journalism's 18th Gold Key citation for distinguished service in high school journalism.

She received the award Saturday at the final session of the Montana Interscholastic Editorial Association Fall Conference at the University of Montana. The citation was presented by Dean Nathan B. Blumberg of the School of Journalism.

Mrs. Page has taught at Sidney High School since 1945 and has served as the publications adviser there for 16 years.

The school newspaper, The Spokesman, and the yearbook, The Stagecoach, have won top recognition from the Quill and Scroll Society, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Montana Interscholastic Editorial Association.

Mrs. Page, a graduate of Minot State College in North Dakota, teaches classes in journalism, English and psychology. She has done graduate work at the University of Montana and at Bedford College in London, England, and she has studied at the Shakespeare Theater at Stratford on Avon in England.

High school yearbooks that received All-State ratings from the MIEA also were announced at the Saturday session. They were: Belt Valley, Belt, Husky Herald; Flathead County, Kalispell, Flathead; Arlee Warrior; Beaverhead County, Dillon, Beaver; Fergus County, Lewistown, Golden Eagle; St. Ignatius Qua Quei; Moore Bulldog; Mission, Hays, White Shield; Billings West Westward; Sacred Heart Academy, Missoula, Pine Cone; Culbertson Cowboy; Columbia Falls Wildcat; Helena Vigilante; Columbus Reflector; Havre Blue Pony; Sentinel, Missoula, Bitterroot; Great Falls Roundup; Fort Benton Pioneer; Glasgow Scotty, and Carter County, Ekalaka, Medicine Rock.
