Required Texts:

Other readings as assigned will be available on electronic course reserve through Mansfield Library

Course Description:

This course covers the development and evolution of epidemiology, the basic science of public health. Major schools of epidemiology from the Roman-Greek, Italian and English traditions will be compared and contrasted.

Online Format:

This course will be delivered over the Internet with support from UMOnline. Readings from the textbooks and discussion questions from the texts and the instructor will form the basis of weekly class postings on the online discussion board. There will also be two exams given throughout the semester, one at midterm and one near the end of the semester. The course will conclude with a final term paper.

Course Evaluation:

Weekly postings to the discussion board will make-up class participation which constitutes 40 percent of the course grade. Each exam will be worth 15 percent of the final grade and the final term paper will constitute 30 percent of the overall grade.

Final Term Paper

For the final paper, students will choose one of the following topics and discuss the important epidemiological concepts that were displayed during that event or within that theory. Additional instructions will be given later on in the semester.

Topics

1. Egyptian Epidemiological Tradition
2. Epidemiology of Influenza
3. The Manchurian Plague
4. Small Pox during the Revolutionary War
5. Roman Malaria Plague
6. Yellow Fever in the U.S.

Plagiarism: All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or a disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. The Code is available for review online at http://www.umt.edu/SA/VPSA/index.cfm/page/1321.

Plagiarism is the representing of another's work as one's own. It is a particularly intolerable offense in the academic community and is strictly forbidden. Students who plagiarize may fail the course and may be remanded to Academic Court for possible suspension or expulsion. (See UM Student Conduct Code).

Students must always be very careful to acknowledge any kind of borrowing that is included in their work. This means not only borrowed wording but also ideas. Acknowledgment of whatever is not one's own original work is the proper and honest use of sources. Failure to acknowledge whatever is not one's own original work is plagiarism.
