UM REGISTRATION
NEARS COMPLETION

MISSOULA---

Room 205 in Main Hall at the University of Montana may be a busy place the remainder of the week.

Many of the 4,064 students who preregistered for winter quarter at the University didn't pick up their print-outs during registration Tuesday on the Missoula campus, so they may have to go to room 205 to get them later this week. The print-outs show which classes they have registered for this quarter.

A total of 1,100 students, excluding those who already have preregistered, had registered through 2 p.m. Tuesday. About 1,000 more students are expected to register for winter quarter, bringing the anticipated total to about 6,100.

Mrs. Emma B. Lommasson, UM registrar, said regular registration of students up to Tuesday afternoon was "about normal" for winter quarter. Students were still pouring into the Men's Gymnasium to register by 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Lommasson said that slick highways, snowdrifts and other weather conditions may have prevented many of the preregistered students from making it back to Missoula in time for Tuesday's registration.

UM classes begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday. Registration deadline is Jan. 9.
