Course description:
A survey of Russian prose, poetry, and drama from their beginnings through their development into the early nineteenth century. No language or literature prerequisites. Course may be taken for a traditional letter grade only. Cross-listed with FLLG 305L and LS 305L. May be applied to General Education Perspective 2 (Literary and Artistic Studies). Required for Russian majors.

Goals and outcomes:
In this course students will find out how and why Russian literature began and will trace its development into the nineteenth century. The course structure will consist of occasional lectures and frequent class discussion. The students will have readings assigned for nearly every class period and will work on writing and analytic skills by keeping a journal of their reactions to the readings. The readings will be arranged into units and quizzes will be administered at the end of each unit to prepare students for the final exam. Through attentive reading, analytical writing, and active participation, the students will finish the semester with a general yet solid knowledge of Russian literature from the medieval period into its “Golden Age.”

Assessment:
Attendance, preparation, and active participation are required. The students will be given a participation grade of 0-3 every day: 0 for being absent, 1 for present without contributing to the discussion (letter grade of C), 2 for adequate participation (letter grade of B), 3 for high quality (not just quantity) of participation (letter grade of A). Others factors figured into the daily participation grade are: 1.) arriving to class late and 2.) being unprepared to contribute when called upon. Each student may be absent one time without his/her grade being affected. No make-ups are allowed for absences or missed quizzes. Each student may, however, drop his/her lowest quiz grade. The final exam may not be taken early or made-up after its scheduled time.

There will be both an assigned reading and a written response (“journal” entry) to be completed for almost every class day. The journals are: 1.) to familiarize students with writing about literature and 2.) to prepare them for class discussion. The readings will be grouped into units. At the end of each unit the students will: 1.) hand in all their journal entries and 2.) take a quiz on the material covered in that unit. Guidelines and expectations for the journal entries will be discussed in class.
Percentage distribution of final course grade:

Participation: 20%
Journals: 30%
Quizzes: 25%
Final exam: 25%
