THREE JOIN MSU RESIDENCE HALLS STAFF

Mrs. Margaret M. Anderson has been named acting manager of residence halls at Montana State University, Missoula, President Carl McFarland announced. Mrs. Lois B. Hazelbaker has been appointed assistant head resident of Brantly Hall, and E. Corinne Turman has been designated assistant head resident of North Corbin Hall.

As acting manager, Mrs. Anderson will be responsible for supervision and maintenance of the dormitories for women. She served as dietitian at the University during two school terms several years ago and for five summer sessions. From 1945-51 she was on the English faculty at Montana State College, Bozeman. She has also taught home economics in the Rosebud High School. She is a graduate of MSU.

Mrs. Hazelbaker was assistant head resident of North Hall (now Brantly) from 1950-53, and for the past three years was housemother for the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority in Missoula. During World War II she headed the Beaverhead County unit of the American Women's Volunteer Service. From 1940-50 she managed an insurance and abstract office in Dillon. In her new post, she will assist the head resident and the head counselor and assume responsibility for the welfare of students during her hours of duty.

Mrs. Turman will perform the same duties for North Corbin Hall. She received a B. A. in English from the University. All three women have been active in civic affairs.

Mrs. Anderson's parents are MSU Prof. Emeritus and Mrs. W. E. Maddock, long-time Missoula residents. Mrs. Hazelbaker is the widow of former Montana Lieutenant Governor Frank Hazelbaker and the daughter of the late Montana Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Theodore Brantly. Brantly Hall is named for her mother, who served as head resident there for many years. Mrs. Turman is the widow of Dr. George Turman, a
